J. Peter Scoblic is the executive editor of The New Republic. His forthcoming book - U.S. vs. Them: Conservatism and George W. Bush in the Age of Nuclear Terror will be published by Viking in April 2008. In addition to The New Republic, Scoblic has been a visiting scholar at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, editor of Arms Control Today, and editor-in-chief of The Brown Journal of World Affairs. His articles on national security, arms control and nuclear non-proliferation have appeared The New York Times, The Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, The Christian Science Monitor, Reader's Digest, the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, and other publications.

Advance praise for U.S. Vs. Them by J. Peter Scoblic:

"In this highly original study, part history, part current analysis, J. Peter Scoblic reveals the deep fear disguised as uncompromising idealism that has propelled the American conservative movement to promote its disastrous foreign policies."

--RICHARD RHODES, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of The Making of the Atomic Bomb and Arsenals of Folly: The Making of the Atomic Arms Race

"J. Peter Scoblic's rollicking indictment of how conservatives have undermined America's security since the dawn of the nuclear era is intellectual history at its best."

--KAI BIRD, co-author with Martin J. Sherwin of the Pulitzer Prize-winning biography American Prometheus: The Triumph and Tragedy of J. Robert Oppenheimer.
